

Jim Jobling, a project manager with Texas A&M University's Conservation Research Laboratory, positions two separate eyes for tackle from a pivot gun carriage. At left, a brass eye compared to an iron version of the same.
USACE photo by Jeremy S. Buddemeier. Courtesy of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Savannah District.

